

Marc Robinson: Curriculum Vitae

Dr. Marc Robinson is a consultant and analyst specializing in public finances. He has advised more than thirty countries – at all levels of development – on improving their budgeting and public financial management systems. He works directly for governments, as well as on behalf of key international organizations (e.g. World Bank and Inter-American Development Bank).

Dr. Robinson has published extensively – and blogs regularly – on budgeting and public financial management issues. His book Bigger Government: The Future of Government Expenditure in Advanced Economies was recognized by the Financial Times as one of the best economics books of 2020.

Marc is an accomplished presenter and executive trainer. He has been a keynote speaker at conferences and symposiums held by diverse entities including the European Union, OECD, APEC, NATO and a number of national ministries of finance. His extensive training experience includes the presentation of courses to senior civil servants at the IMF Institute, World Bank and Duke University.

Dr. Robinson is a member of the OECD Advisory Panel on Budgeting and Public Expenditures.

Before becoming a full-time consultant, Marc was a staff economist in the IMF's Fiscal Affairs Department, a senior civil servant and a professor of economics in Australia. He holds a PhD from the Australian National University, a Masters in Economics from the University of Melbourne, and a BA (first class honors) from the University of Sydney.

In addition to English, Marc speaks and writes fluent French, together with intermediate-level Spanish. He holds Australian and Swiss citizenship.
